SPC to host bilingual workshops for prospective students, families

LEVELLAND – South Plains College will host Opening Doors/Abriendo Puertas for prospective students and their families from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 25 in the Student Center on the Levelland campus.

The day-long event will feature workshops, Keys for Your Future, in English and Spanish regarding admission, financial aid, testing and career choices. In spring 2008, more than 75 students and their parents attended the sessions.

“At South Plains College, we understand getting ready for college can be a complicated process: therefore, we invite you to Opening Doors where we will walk you through the steps of preparing for college,” said Kimbra Quinn, director of Enrollment Management at SPC. “Opening Doors provides an environment where students receive one-on-one attention, and leave the campus with a head start on the college admissions process.”

Lunch will be served to participants who will have the opportunity to receive first-hand accounts of student success stories, and a chance to win many door prizes including fee waivers for Accuplacer testing.”

For more information and to reserve your spot in Opening Doors, call Kathryn Perez, recruiter at SPC, at 806-716-2115.
