SPC students earn all state recognition

LEVELLAND – Six South Plains College students recently received all-state honors by the Texas Community College Band Directors Association.

SPC students named to All State Symphonic Band include Catherine Bankston of Shallowater, sophomore music education major, clarinet; Tracy Abbott of Lubbock, freshman music education major, clarinet; Kishai Ortega of Lubbock Cooper, freshman music education major, clarinet; Justin King of Crane, freshman Commercial Music major, trombone; and Jeff Watson of Lubbock, sophomore culinary arts major, trombone. Cody Cross of Lubbock, sophomore criminal justice major, baritone saxophone was named to the All State Jazz Band.

“I am very proud of these students as well as all the other SPC students who entered the audition process,” said Lynda Reid, associate professor of music and Symphonic Band Director. “I am glad for any of my students to attend the state music education convention and to take advantage of the opportunities provided there.”

For more information, contact Reid at (806) 716-2265.
